

DISPOSABLE CONTINENCE CARE PRODUCTS

Individualized Care for Individual Needs

PRODUCTS FOR EVERY PATIENT

For many of your residents, using incontinence products is just part of life. Our goal, and yours, is to help prevent that need from diminishing their lives. How? By focusing on three things—the right products, the right fit and the right care.

Know Your Products.

Medline offers a full line of products that are as diverse as your residents. Options include:

Adult Briefs

Indicated for residents who are bedridden, contracted, difficult to turn/position, aggressive or combative.

Pant & Liner

Indicated for residents who are ambulatory, able to bear weight, or up with one-person assist, use underwear, self-toilet, or are involved in a B & B program.

Adult Protective Disposable Underwear

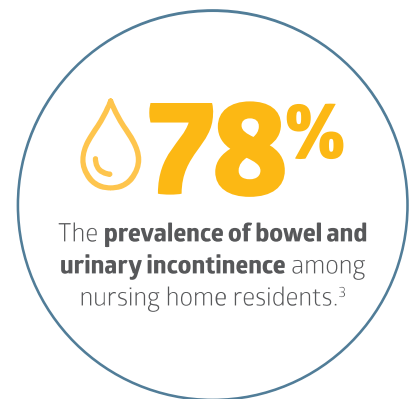

Indicated for residents who are incontinent but active, can be pulled on and off just like normal underpants.

Underpads

Used to protect the bed and furniture when a resident is incontinent.

Bladder Control Pads

Adhere to the inside of resident's undergarments to help manage light to moderate incontinence.

Size Does Matter.

When using briefs or protective disposable underwear, it's important to remember that bigger doesn't necessarily mean better. When these products are too large, they aren't snug enough to wick away moisture. Using the correct size helps prevent leaks and protect skin. Use Medline's sizing guides to find the right fit for your residents.

Properly fitting briefs require fewer changes and are more comfortable for residents.

Treat Skin with Care.

Aging skin is thinner and more susceptible to damage from moisture, friction and trauma. With all that incontinence exposes delicate skin to—moisture, bacteria, ammonia and more—good skincare is critical:

- » Gently wash skin with appropriate cleansing products
- » Pat skin dry—no rubbing
- » Use only water-based barrier creams and avoid over application, which can reduce product absorbency

43%

Nursing home residents that have some form of IAD.³

Defending Dignity

Imagine the effect incontinence would have on you as a person. Your independence, gone. Your personality, slowly slipping away. That's why it's so important that your residents are treated as whole people. To help preserve their dignity, they must be treated respectfully with every interaction:

- » Enter the room with consent from the resident
- » Fully close curtains in semi-private rooms
- » Minimize body exposure during care and treatment
- » Give explanations and information
- » Offer information when appropriate
- » Get resident's consent before performing any activity or procedure
- » Use humor, reassurance and professionalism to help residents feel comfortable

EDUCATION PROMOTES BETTER OUTCOMES.

The long-term care system is large, complex and extraordinarily challenging. One of the best ways to successfully face these challenges is to improve staff confidence and competence through education and staff development. With today's evolving regulatory standards, lower payments and growing resident-to-CNA ratios, it can be difficult for your staff to meet the educational standards you're striving for—but Medline is making it easier.

Our Continence Management Program includes a growing collection of education and education management resources that:

- » Can be accessed online 24/7
- » Are available at no cost for organizations using FitRight® products
- » Include clinical and product education, care plans, forms and more

The role of the Certified Nurse Assistant (CNA) is critical in healthcare today. As the frontline staff, CNAs are often the principal caregivers for your residents. The NAHCA/Medline Partnership facilitates the professional development of CNAs by providing new courses to build leadership skills and empower a "Care Force" that will improve the quality of care for your residents.

TOOLS

Cost containment and best practice reporting

Providing Cost-Effective, Individualized Care

Managing incontinence can use up to 30–40% of your facility’s overall medical supply cost. That isn’t even considering a 15% impact to your overall operational cost due to skin injury, falls or other liabilities.

Medline is committed to helping you manage your spending on disposable absorbent incontinence products. Despite their substantial proportion of total spending, incontinence products are frequently not used in the most efficient manner or based on individual needs. We’re ready to help you manage your costs by:

- » Assessing your product requirements based on each individual’s need
- » Establishing custom benchmarks and PPD rates
- » Analyzing utilization trends monthly and quarterly and sharing findings with you
- » Offering recommendations based on your own data to capture potential cost savings

Best Practice Report Example

Two exclusive tools we use to help you in this effort include:

The FitRight® Assessment tool, which provides resident-centered product recommendations and ordering quantities based on each individual’s physical and cognitive status, and even generates assignment sheets for your staff to deliver resident-specific care.

The Best Practice Report, which shows comprehensive product utilization data and trends, tracks patient-per-day costs and compares usage against custom benchmarks for your facility—thus identifying potential cost savings.

FIND THE RIGHT SIZE.

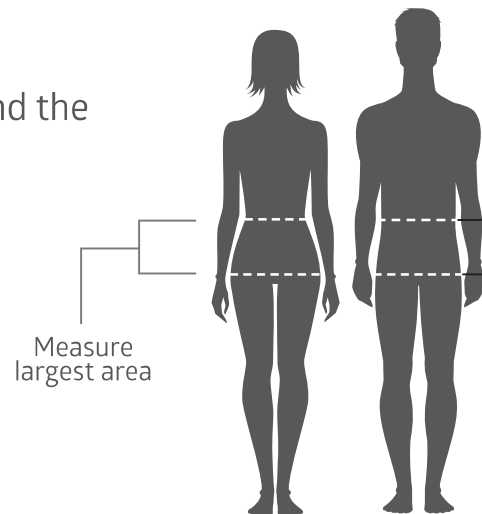

The right fit is critical for fluid containment—find the size your residents need in three simple steps.

Bladder Control Pads and Liners

One size fits all—no measuring needed.

Briefs, Protective Underwear and Knit Pant

Measure the hips or waist (selecting the larger of the two) as follows:

STEP 1 - Measure	STEP 2 - Double Measurement and Add 2"	STEP 3 - Select Product Size
Measure the largest area from hip bone to hip bone and over the abdomen.	Double the largest measurement obtained in Step 1 and add two inches.	Using this measurement, make product size selection from the chart below.
Example: Hip bone to hip bone = 19" (49 cm)	Example: $19" \times 2$ (49 cm \times 2) = 38" + 2" $(97 \text{ cm} + 5 \text{ cm}) = 40"$ (102 cm)	Example: 40" (102 cm) = Medium or Regular Brief
Size	Brief Size Selection	Protective Underwear Size Selection
Small	20–32" (51–81 cm)	20–28" (51–71 cm)
Medium	32–42" (81–107 cm)	28–40" (71–102 cm)
Regular	40–50" (102–127 cm)	N/A
Large	48–58" (122–147 cm)	40–56" (102–142 cm)
X-Large	59–66" (150–168 cm)	56–68" (142–173 cm)
XX-Large	60–69" (152–175 cm)	68–80" (173–203 cm)
Bariatric	65–106" (165–229 cm)	N/A
