Principle Business Enterprises, Inc.

Welcome to PBE

Principle Business Enterprises, (PBE) is a woman-owned, three generation, family enterprise celebrating over 55 years of service to the healthcare field and over 30 years as a pioneer in the development of incontinence and moisture management solutions. Founded by Lee and Jim Mitchell in 1961, the company's name and corporate charter clearly speak to its ethical foundation and purpose:

"to operate its business affairs in such a manner as will accord with that fixed principle which will destine it to do nothing but that which is honorable and will promote a high standard of business ethics in its own affairs and may tend to raise and leaven the standard of business ethics of the community."

PBE is the acknowledged innovative leader in high performance niche products especially in the area of incontinence care and fall prevention. Its products have been designed to address risk factors and care protocols that can materially affect the quality of life for individuals in hospitals, nursing homes, clinics and homecare settings while providing exceptional customer service.

Our Mission

"To be a principle-centered business that uplifts, enlightens, and enriches the lives of those it serves so that they can live more abundantly."

Understanding Absorbency

Capacity claims can be confusing. Some brands show "drops of fluid" or use terms, such as; "super," "extra," or "supreme" to indicate product capacity. Two measurable indicators are C.U.P. and ISO. The Tranquility Product Family uses C.U.P. and displays actual product fluid capacity in standard 8 ounce measuring cups.

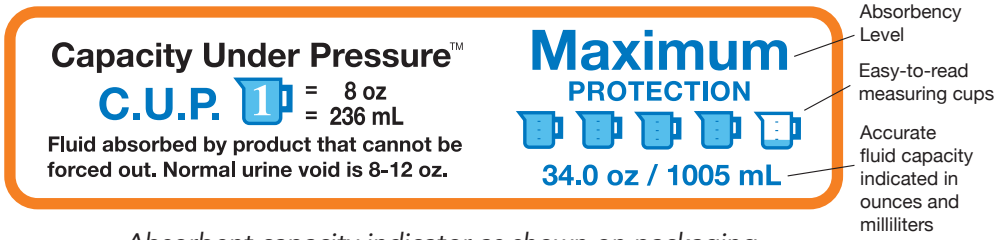
ISO (International Organization for Standardization) is a test method that measures capacity that only records the amount of fluid a product can absorb without any pressure applied (free-swell). The product is placed into saline solution for 30 minutes. After removal from the saline, it is allowed to drip for 5 minutes. The level of fluid that is retained is the ISO capacity.

C.U.P. (Capacity Under Pressure) is the recommended way PBE tests because it gives a more "real world" indication of what the product will hold in actual use.

PBE tests all absorbent products using the ISO method and also tests using the C.U.P. which takes it a step further. After the product has been soaked in synthetic urine, pressure is applied to simulate the kind of pressure a wearer would exert on the saturated product. The amount of fluid remaining after pressure has been applied is defined as the C.U.P. capacity.

The reality is that wearers of incontinence products are sitting, standing, walking, or lying down – all of which exerts pressure on the product. Experienced caregivers are acutely aware that a product's RETENTION is the key factor in incontinence management.

Easy to understand graphics on packaging help in selecting the right product and capacity to meet the challenge.



Absorbent capacity indicator as shown on packaging.

Experienced caregivers are acutely aware that a product's RETENTION is the key factor in incontinence management.

"The fact that Tranquility actually states the number of ounces it absorbs says it all. Other companies that advertise 'maximum' or 'ultimate' don't compare … I have not seen any other brand diaper that can boast a 34 oz. capacity for their overnight underwear! Dry, plus cost effective – so glad we tried them!"

– D.K., Caregiver, Whippany, NJ

The Tranquility® Advantage

Quality of Life

- Effective core design eliminates the feeling of wetness, coldness, and discomfort.
- Confidence of no leakage and no odor ends isolation, and restores normal socialization.
- Uninterrupted sleep patterns contribute to healing and well-being.
- Ending leakage means less laundry and less frustration for caregivers.
- Caregivers experience less fatigue especially with complex cases: dementia, mobility limitation, bowel incontinence, and obesity.

TRANQUILITY®
PREMIUM PROTECTION

Clinical Benefits

- Tranquility superabsorbent technology protects fragile skin from irritation and rashes.
- By inhibiting bacterial growth, urinary tract infections, and skin breakdown can be reduced.
- Injury from incontinence related slips and falls can be lowered.
- By decreasing the number of changes needed, the risk of strain/injury to caregivers is reduced.

Economic Benefits

- Total cost savings: high absorbent capacity means fewer changes, fewer units purchased, fewer units to dispose, and less labor required.
- Laundry cost savings: fewer clothing/bedding changes due to leakage, less detergent and water usage, longer linen life, and less labor.

Peach Mat Guarantee®

Tranquility Premium Protection Products are carefully engineered to provide premium protection. The Peach Mat construction uses a proprietary composite structure of tissues, superabsorbent polymers, cellulose, and liquid dispersing materials. The peach-colored core assures the product is the Tranquility brand. The clinically proven design guarantees four key factors:

1. Unsurpassed capacity – protects against leakage and skin irritation.
2. Odor reduction – due to polymer selection and product construction odor is reduced.
3. Urine pH neutralization – protects delicate skin from the caustic effect of urine.
4. Inhibition of bacterial growth – deprives bacteria of a place or conditions to thrive.

You can rely on Tranquility's promise of unsurpassed overall performance in the areas of…

- skin dryness
- odor reduction
- urine neutralization
- inhibition of bacterial growth.

In fact, we guarantee it!

"As a full time caregiver to my wife, I have painfully witnessed a steady cognitive and physical decline over the past six years. Last fall she started with incontinence. This winter, I finally gave in to not getting up with her to go to the toilet because it was literally wearing me out. I discovered your underwear, which I put on her at bedtime. They work! I am able to get a reasonable night's sleep, have more patience and don't have to change the sheets!"

BOOSTERS

What is a booster pad?

Booster pads have a flow-through design that allows the pad to fill to capacity first and then pass additional fluid to the host (primary) garment. Booster pads are placed inside any disposable undergarment with a moisture barrier, boosting absorbency to extend wear-time, reduce changes and help contain bowel incontinence. Strategically placed over the hip helps prevent leaking for side sleepers.

"Haven't had any leaks since using these products. Had to get up 2-3 times a night with my elderly mother in the past. Now we can both get an uninterrupted night's sleep and not have to change bedding, etc. Thank you. TopLiners are inexpensive and save having to change disposable underwear every time. Thanks for giving us back our rest."

Moisture Management Standards

Effective products dealing with moisture need to meet exacting performance criteria. The objectives are always to maintain or restore the ideal "micro-climate" for skin, the safety and quality of life for the individuals and caregivers involved. The following are fundamental principles and criteria that need to be considered:

1. Sufficient absorbent capacity to provide 6-8 hours of protection to allow uninterrupted activity (such as sleep, working, shopping, etc.).
2. Protection from risks to the skin caused by shear, friction, heat, wetness and unbalanced pH.
3. Protection from the risk of falls associated with incontinence and/or wound exudate that leaves the feeling of wetness/cold from the absorbent products.
4. Design and absorbent capacity that eliminates the waste and costs incurred arising from product leakage and the resulting excessive cost and labor demands resulting from wet bedding and/or wet clothing.
5. Ease of use and effectiveness that minimizes the burden and frustration for caregivers or professional staff that leads to "burnout."
6. The high performance that allows care-providers to focus on individual-centered therapies and life-enhancement strategies for care recipients.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Will drinking less fluid decrease my challenges with incontinence?

No. Cutting back on fluid intake can lead to dehydration, constipation and irritation of the bladder. It is true that certain types of fluids should be avoided such as alcohol and caffeine that irritate the bladder.

2. What can I do to stop leaking with my current incontinence products?

The main factors to take into consideration when choosing the correct incontinence product are:

- Sizing and Fit: Make sure you have the right size product. Leg openings should be snug fitting (no gaps) and should not create redness around the leg/groin area.
- Style and absorption capacity required: Make sure that you are wearing the correct product style and absorbency level to meet your needs. Refer to the Product Selection Chart (page 20) to assist in selection of the right style of product to meet ones mobility and incontinence level.

3. Can two briefs/pads be used at the same time (also called "diaper doubling")?

No, doubling up on products that contain a moisture barrier will not increase absorption. Briefs, disposable underwear and pads/liners are typically designed with a moisture barrier that stops the urine from passing through. This approach to adding more capacity or addressing leakage concerns works only if the second product is a "flow-through" design with no moisture barrier (Refer to booster pads on pages 12, 16 & 17).

4. Why are some incontinence products so much more expensive?

Higher performing incontinence products (that may cost more) typically contain more super absorbent capacity and are made with superior quality materials. The Tranquility Product Family keeps skin drier, neutralizes urine pH, and reduces odors. It is often possible to save money by using the more expensive products because they require fewer changes, result in fewer clothing/bedding changes, less waste, less laundry due to leakage, and better quality of life for both the care provider and the care recipient.

5. How is bowel incontinence managed?

Booster pads are designed to contain the bowel, assist in clean-up and can extend the wear time of the "host garment." The focus for bowel incontinence is on containment not absorption. (Refer to booster pads on page 12).

Product Selection Chart

Definitions: Incontinence types

Stress:
Leakage of small amounts of urine due to sudden pressure on the bladder, such as coughing, sneezing, laughing or exercising.

Urge:
A sudden urge to urinate that is so strong it cannot be held long enough to reach the bathroom.

Mixed:
A combination of the symptoms of stress and urge incontinence.

Overflow:
Involuntary urination. Bladder muscles are unable to contain urine under pressure. Feeling of inability to empty bladder completely.

Reflex:
Involuntary urination without sensation of a full bladder. Unaware of the need to urinate.

Functional:
Inability to get to the bathroom fast enough due to mobility or cognitive impairments.

Sizing Guide

Suggested sizes are a guideline. When in doubt, best practice is to use a tape measure and obtain an accurate hip measurement. For sizes greater than an XL, obtain an accurate hip measurement for best fit.

How to Measure
Use a tape measure to measure in inches the widest part of your body between waist and hip. Use this number to determine product size.

Correct Fitting Brief

Correct Fit
Product should fit snugly with the placement of the tape tabs on the hips and no gaps around the legs.

Poor Fitting Brief

Too big
Brief is too large if tape tabs overlap, will cause leakage.

Too small
Brief is too small if tape tabs reach side panels, may cause irritation.
